NOT A RIPPLE.

Prospects for a Breeze for the Small-Raters Dubious.

CENTRE ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Not a ripple disturbed the waters of the bay and sound in the vicinity of the Seawanhaka clubhouse this forenoon. This made the outlook dubious for a lively initial race between the Spruce IV and the Ethelwynn, in the series for the club's challenge trophy, and it seemed likely to be well in the afternoon before the typical autumn breeze from the southward would be of force enough to fill the sails, even for the tiny racers that are to be for several days the centre of attraction in these waters. Challenger Brand and Defender Field were early astir, and while they said little it was evident that they agreed with the weather sharps that the outlook was "mighty ohsartin'." Even the club burgee at the top of the tall pole on the lawn was unable to hold forth encouragement of zephyrs, and the picture as a whole was "as idle as a painted ship upon a painted ocean." The hum of the busy naphtha launches darting over the bay was the only indication of stir afloat. The details had been perfected for the windward and leeward race today, and the only anxiety was about the chances for wind. At 11 o'clock these chances were only that there will be no race.

The Spruce IV was brought over from Abram's Cold Spring yard this morning, and Measurer Hyslop, after taking the load-water line at the club float, took the area of her sails on the lawn under the shade of the trees. Meanwhile Messrs. Field and Ball had the Ethelwynn up-turned on the beach for a final touch at the pot lead-ing. When Measurer Hyslop finished his calculations for the racing length of the Spruce IV, he said the figures were remarkable, in that the result was exactly fifteen feet, the class limit, the Ethelwynn's racing length, recorded last night, was 14 62-100 feet.

The boats were started at 12:50. The Ethelwynn got five seconds the advantage of the start.

Mrs. Langtry's Jewels Not Recovered.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The missing jewels of Mrs. Langtry have not been recovered. The noted solicitor, Sir George Lewis, who has charge of Mrs. Langtry's case, affirms the truth of the story, although Mrs. Langtry is uncertain as to the exact value of the missing jewels, first placing it at £75,000 and then at £40,000. The man who presented at the bank the order calling for the delivery of the jewels gave the name of George Watts. He is not known. The forgery of Mrs. Langtry's signature is an absolute fac-simile, and the paper is the same as that used by Mrs. Langtry. The thief fully described the box in which the jewels were kept.

CENTRE ISLAND, Sept. 21.—The yachts turned the outer mark, the Spruce IV at 2:06:15 and the Ethelwynn at 2:08:20. At 3 P. M. the yachts were becalmed with little prospect of finishing.

No Further Gold Shipments Probable.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Lazard Freres, who are probably the leading shippers of gold, said today: "Unless something unforeseen should intervene, there will probably be no further gold shipments for some time to come, in our judgment."

Hundred Mile Bicycle Road Race.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 21.—The one-hundred-mile bicycle road race arranged by the Newark Century Cycle Club, going five times over the Elizabeth, Springfield, Westfield-railway twenty-mile course, was begun at 9:25 o'clock this morning. There were ninety-six starters, the Mercer County Wheelmen of Trenton showing forty-five, which number can hardly fail to give it the grand plane offered to the club having the most survivors. Among the starters are R. P. Searle, holder of the Chicago-New York record, who went from scratch.

IN THICK FOG.

Serious Rear-End Collision on the Fitchburg Road.

ATHOL, Mass., Sept. 21.—One of the most serious wrecks the Fitchburg Railroad Company has had for years occurred at Stoneville, near Erving, about 3 o'clock this morning. It was so foggy that a flagman sent back to flag could not be seen, and two freight trains had a rear-end collision, tossing the cars right and left and blocking both tracks for about seven hours. The engine of the rear train was driven into a large sand bank and the cars were smashed to splinters. The fireman of the rear train lost a leg and an arm, and died in Greenfield this morning.

Last night there was another wreck, only about four miles west of this one, and the wrecking train had just got that cleared and started for home, when it was recalled from Gardner's. The tracks are clear again and trains running, but it will be some time before the wreck is cleared up.

CHOLERA IN CHINA.

Steamer Gaelic Brings Reports of the Progress of the Disease.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Steamer Gaelic, from Hong Kong and Yokohama, which arrived yesterday, made the trip in thirteen days and nine hours from Yokohama. The vessel did not stop at Honolulu. The Gaelic's papers showed that for two weeks prior to leaving Hong Kong there were only six deaths from cholera. In the same length of time at Amoy there has been no cholera. At Nagasaki there were 54 cases and 51 deaths, at Hiogo 329 cases and 256 deaths, and at Yokohama 27 cases and 19 deaths. At Hiogo, where the cholera appeared to be at its height, eleven cabin passengers were taken on board. Two other vessels arrived yesterday from cholera-infected ports and were placed in quarantine. They were both sailing vessels, from Kobe, Japan, and Honolulu.

Rescued from a Capsized Boat.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 21.—Late yesterday afternoon a boat containing Mrs. Vandyke and her two sons of New York, summer residents at Merrish island, was capsized off the mouth of the harbor. The accident was seen by George White of Newcastle, who went to the rescue in a boat and saved all three. Had it not been for the close proximity of Mr. White the whole party would undoubtedly have been drowned.

Bond Syndicate Profit at the Rate of Four Per Cent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Members of the government bond syndicate received by mail this morning checks for their profits in the syndicate. The communications were marked private and confidential. It is understood, however, that the members were allowed four per cent. interest on their money, which, for the period it was used, amounts to about 1¾.

still increasing. In our fourteen years of business we did not ship so many bales of rugs to the large cities as we are doing at present. In fact the best business year we have had is the present one. Bundles and cases are shipped by us daily to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, etc.

Tremendously large is the collection of our rugs.

Our importations include rugs from every district of The East. We have native agencies in every dark corner of The East. There is no importer in the large cities who carries such a fine varied assortment of floor coverings as we do. The great amount of business we are doing in this country, and the special facilities we enjoy in The Orient, enable us to sell our goods 20 to 40 per cent. lower than city prices.

☞ Oriental Rugs are often moth eaten or rotten by water. Such rugs for the time being look well, but after a short use fall into pieces. Again, Eastern rugs fancy buyers by their wrinkles, puckerings, etc., etc. We have separated the rugs which are in this condition and offer them at a low price.

Ready for the International Athletic Contests.

MANHATTAN FIELD, New York, Sept. 21.—The greatest event in the history of the athletic world commenced this afternoon at Manhattan Field, when the teams representing the premier athletic clubs of the two greatest nations of the world met in friendly battle for supremacy. Since its inception the matter of the contest has been continually before the public, and the interest taken therein has never been surpassed.

Not only is the contest one between the most famous athletic organizations of Great Britain and the United States, but each club has recruited to its ranks the year's champions in the different events set down for decision, giving the affair international importance and making the struggle one between the champions of Great Britain and America. The individual prowess of the different athletes engaged in the contest has already been published several times. Taking both teams in the aggregate, it will be found that the visitors have in their ranks five English champions, only three English record holders and no world's record holder, while there are enrolled under the "Mercury-foot" banner ten American champions, seven American and seven world's record holders.

The weather today was simply ideal as regards its fitness for athletic games. All the arrangements were carefully attended to, even in the minutest details. More than $4,000 worth of tickets were sold in advance. The track and infield were in splendid condition. The jumps had been very carefully prepared, being laid down with cinders up to the take-off, which was a vast improvement on the championships. A new device was used to acquaint the occupants of the stands with the results. A monster telegraph board was set up in the centre of the field, on which the numbers of the events, the winners and the time were displayed. This board was worked on a swivel, and could be turned to all sides of the field. The clubhouse balcony was decorated with the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack. A section of the grand stand was occupied by contingents from English steamers Campania and Germanic, who came to root for their countrymen, and their section was gaily decorated, the green and gold of the London Athletic Club being intermingled with the scarlet of the New York Athletic Club.

At 1:30 o'clock, when Crawley's band opened with "God Save the Queen" and the "Star Spangled Banner," the grand stand and bleachers were rapidly filling, mostly with those who had come early to get the best of the seats sold at the gate. The bulk of those who had purchased tickets beforehand were content to wait till later. The covered stands were about one quarter full, while the front rows of the bleachers were all taken up, and the occupants sat about, removing their coats and making themselves comfortable for an hour's wait. The programs were a little late in arriving, but when they did come called forth expressions of admiration.

At 2 P. M. the English team arrived and was greeted with applause as the members were escorted to the dressing room. The crowds commenced pouring in in earnest after this, and the covered stands quickly assumed a gay and animated appearance. Tommy Lee, the ex-champion sprinter of the New York club, created much amusement as he trotted around the track with the club mascot, which proved to be a white goat decorated with the American colors.

At 2:30 P. M. fully twelve thousand persons were present. Kilpatrick and Lyons, the New York Athletic Club pair for the half-mile, were greeted with cheers as they appeared, followed immediately by Horan and Lewin, for the London Athletic Club. Kilpatrick had the pole, Horan next, Lyons third, and Lewin on the outside. The race was won by Kilpatrick, by eight yards, with Horan second Lyons third; time, 1:53 2-5, beating the world's record by one second.

The one hundred-yards dash was won by B. J. Wefers, N. Y. A. C., by half a yard, with Charles A. Bradley, London, second, and J. V. Crum, New York, third; time 9 4-5, equaling the world's record.

The next event was the running high jump. The entries were Reginald Williams, Allan Brooke Johnston, for London; and Michael F. Sweeney and S. A. Warner Baltazzi, N. Y. A. C. R. Williams, London A. C., was the first man to fail with the bar at 5 feet, 9 inches. Sweeney cleared this height without an effort. Both the Englishmen failed at 5 feet 10 inches. It looked then as though they had reached their limit. Baltazzi cleared at this distance easily. S. Johnston, London, failed for the third time at 5 feet 10 inches and was out.

The results of the succeeding events will be bulletined at the News office.

GOING TO THE GREAT SALT POND AT BLOCK ISLAND.

Steamer Block Island arrived here soon after 11 o'clock this morning, with a large party, going to Block Island upon the invitation of the commissioners, to witness the formal opening of the Great Salt pond into the ocean. A large number of Newporters was at Commercial wharf to meet the boat and join the party. Those from this city included Governor Lippitt, Congressman Bull, Mayor Boyle, Colonel Wetherell of the commission, Senator Charles H. Burdick, Senator Brown and Representative Ward of Middletown, Senator Dyer and Representative Tallman of Portsmouth, Senator Charles E. Weeden and ex-Representative Landers of Jamestown, Representatives John W. Rogers and Godfrey Moffitt, Judge Baker, Colonel A. C. Landers, Postmaster Young, Sheriff Anthony, Commander F. W. Dickins, U. S. N., Councilman W. C. Townsend, Deputy Collector Ball, F. E. Thompson, John H. Crosby, John Gilpin, Hon. Robert S. Franklin, Rev. M. Van Horne, Hon. J. W. Horton, Charles E. Harvey, Arthur L. Gilman, Lieutenant Bertholf, U. S. M. C., W. L. Tilley, Gunner Morgan, L. K. Carr, E. V. Westcott, Henry W. Cozzens, James G. Cozzens of Chicago, W. H. Westcott, Clark Burdick, M. AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The interior decoration of the First Presbyterian Church has been completed, and the stagings are down preparatory to laying the floor and setting up the seats. The general color scheme is yellow and brown tints carried out in a very pleasing manner. The huge trusses have been beautified by interior brackets, which while adding in strength greatly set off the lofty space below the sloping ceiling. The arched front over the pulpit platform has been given a rather novel effect. Stucco cherubs in various postures, twenty-four in all, stand out from the face of the wall in high relief, with an occasional touch of gold upon the points of high lights. It will probably be weeks, if not months, before the church is ready for use.

TRUE TO THE SOUTH.

Confederate Veterans Explain Why They Fought.

Grand Parade the Feature of the Last Day's Ceremonies.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 21.—One of the leading features of yesterday's events, one that caused, perhaps, more comment, more enthusiastic cheering, and which will make a lasting impression upon those who saw it, was a company of Confederate veterans, attired in their tattered old uniforms of gray, carrying the Stars and Stripes. They formed a part of the big parade, and as they passed through miles and miles of streets they were tendered an ovation.

The procession formed on Market street, the principal business thoroughfare of the city, and was characteristic of the occasion. First came a platoon of police and then the United States troops, foot and artillery, in camp at Chickamauga park, under command of Colonel Poland. These numbered, all told, about 1200 men.

There were battalions from the Sixth, Fourteenth and Twenty-third Infantry and battery F, Fourth artillery; the Ohio National Guards, including companies from Cleveland and Columbus, the latter on bicycles; Capital City Guards of Georgia. This troop marched to the dedication from Atlanta, arriving here Tuesday.

The procession marched through the principal streets to Grant university, in front of which the reviewing stand was erected. The streets were decorated in great profusion, and as the troops marched under and by them they were accompanied by the almost constant cheers of assembled thousands. General J. S. Fullerton, president of the park commission, was grand marshal.

The procession disbanded shortly after passing the reviewing stand, and the battery proceeded to Orchard Knob, on the summit of which was fired the Union salute of 44 guns at noon. At that hour began the exercises in the tent intended to commemorate, in connection with the dedication, the battle of Chattanooga proper.

Vice President Stevenson presided. The proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Samuel J. Nicolls, D.D., of St. Louis. Hon. George Ochs, Chattanooga's eloquent executive, was introduced and made an address of welcome to the visitors.

Speaking For the South.

General William B. Bate's address presented the southern view of the causes leading to the war. He said: "Whatever may be the right or wrong, the south believed she was right, and the principles in defense of which the south accepted battle after peaceably seceding from the Union were found in the constitution and taught by our fathers.

"I have not the least apprehension that impartial history will fail to recognize the justification of the south in the records of our country, and that according to the faith that was in her people and their judgment, made up from that standpoint, there was no alternative left in 1861 but the appeal to arms; and I affirm, with equal confidence, that any comparison of the two sections from the earliest times to the present day will not find the south less patriotic, or less solicitous for the honor, glory and welfare of the Union."

The senator followed this up by a detailed history of the battle of Chickamauga and the events preceding and following it, as viewed from his standpoint.

General Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio spoke in part as follows: "Here upon this legislative field, where political questions were to be settled, this conflict took place, and more than 30,000 men fell, killed or wounded in this bloody conflict. It was an offering upon the altar of a country's salvation, of a country's purification, of a country's rehabilitation, of a country's glorification, that was worthy of the magnificent results that followed the war."

Turney's Bombshell.

When General Grosvenor had finished, Governors Morton of New York, Woodbury of Vermont, Matthews of Indiana and Turney of Tennessee each made short talks. Governor Turney caused something of a sensation. It came about in this way:

Governor Woodbury said that during the war each side believed it was right, but now the southerners would have to teach their children the south was wrong.

Gov. Turney took exception to this. "I believed I was right during the four years and 19 days I served in the Confederate army," he said, "and at the end of that time I thought I was right. I still think I was right and shall teach my children so. No one is more loyal to the Stars and Stripes than I, and no one is more loyal to the government, but I can never be convinced that the south was wrong."

This rather frank expression caused a great stir in the audience, and when the meeting adjourned was the topic of general conversation on all sides.

The Wind-Up.

Barnum's big tent was filled again last night. There was a gathering of the Army of Northern Virginia and that portion of the Army of the Potomac which fought at Chickamauga. General E. C. Walthall of Mississippi presided. In calling the meeting to order, he said, in part:

"To be chosen to preside over an assembly like this is a proud distinction for which I am profoundly grateful. My selection for such a duty involves the flattering implication that I am deemed worthy to represent the soldier of the south and all he stands for. After the lapse of 30 years, since his banners went down for him, in his name, it is my pride and pleasure to greet his former foeman, when he joins in doing honor to our reunited country's flag."

Colonel W. C. Oates, governor of Alabama, was the next speaker, and he was greeted with enthusiastic cheers. In his introductory remarks Governor Oates referred to the significance the dedication of the battlefield of Chickamauga portended. The Union veteran, by his ceremony, extolled his own gallantry, by which alone he was able to triumph over such determined foes as were those of the Confederate army. It was complimentary to the Confederate veteran in this manly way to acknowledge defeat, accomplished by overpowering numbers, and to shake hands with his adversaries as honorable men. He next recited the action of his men at Chattanooga, telling of the heroic fight they made. Then he spoke of the causes of the war.

Colonel J. A. Williamson of New York and Colonel S. R. Stegman also spoke, after which the meeting adjourned.

At noon the citizens of Chattanooga paid their compliments to General H. V. Boynton, who originated the idea of making a national park out of the battlefield of Chickamauga. A number of citizens went to the general's office in the government building and presented him with a silver dinner set, containing 225 pieces. It was a complete surprise to the venerable gentleman, and he was so overcome that he could scarcely express his thanks.

A reception was tendered Vice President Stevenson and General Schofield and the visiting governors at the Reed House last night.

Inciting to Murder.

HONG KONG, Sept. 21.—At the annual examinations in Canton, thousands of students were given copies of an imperial decree, in which the doctrines of the Christians were fiercely condemned. The decree uses the following language: "A stupid, black-haired race is establishing sundry sects, and they regard not their own lives, but pretend to rise again as immortal men and women. They congregate, and abandoning chastity, behave like obscene birds and beasts. Faithful Confucians must shoot and stone and behead them without mercy. I, the emperor, command the authorities to eradicate these weeds and vermin. Kill the serpents. Throw them to the wolves and tigers, because there is no salvation for them either against heaven-sent calamities or misfortunes caused by human agencies."

Chinese Badly Whipped.

TOKIO, Sept. 7, via San Francisco, Sept. 21.—Taiwan-Fu, the old capital of Formosa, and Chang-Hwa, an adjacent fortified town, was captured by a body of 2000 Japanese on Aug. 26, after a short contest, in which 24 of the assailants were killed or wounded. Of the Chinese garrison, numbering 10,000, 650 were killed or wounded and the remainder dispersed in various directions.

For Use of Massachusetts Troops.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The navy department has decided to turn over to the state of Massachusetts, for the use of the militia, the old receiving ship Minnesota. After many years service as a receiving ship, lying in the North river at New York, this wooden frigate was put out of commission about a week ago, and there is no further use for her in the naval service.

Senator Peffer Hurt.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 21.—A collision occurred on Lookout Mountain yesterday afternoon between two trains. The speed of both trains was checked in time to avert a serious accident. Several persons were injured, including Senator Peffer of Kansas, who was thrown from his seat and cut about the head severely, but not seriously.

Morton For President.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 20. — Governor Morton of New York was formally put in nomination for the presidency by Senator Edmund O'Connor, at a serenade tendered him by all the New Yorkers present at Chattanooga, at the residence of F. G. Montague, with whom they dined.

On to Atlanta.

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 21. — Governors McIntyre of Colorado, Holcomb of Nebraska, McKinley of Ohio, Morton of New York, Werts of New Jersey, Rich of Michigan and Greenhalge of Massachusetts will go to Atlanta with their staffs from here to the exposition.

As to Be Expected.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—All the papers, in commenting upon the international athletic contests between the London Athletic club and the New York Athletic club, say that the team does not represent the full strength of the country.

Disastrous Fire Raging.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Sept. 21.—The most disastrous fire in the city's history is raging. The opera house is completely destroyed. A general alarm has been turned in. The fire is now next door to the telegraph office.

Salaries Go Down.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 21.—The royal assent has been given to the bill reducing the salaries of the governor, the judges and other officials. Governor O'Brien refused his assent to the bill before leaving here.

Held For the Grand Jury.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—John E. and Frank I. Campbell and Owen Dugan, all of Somerville, were arraigned in the municipal court yesterday charged with manslaughter in killing Thomas M. Rotchford on July 21 last, and were held in $5000 each for the grand jury.

Both Badly Damaged.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 21.—The British schooner, Harry W. Lewis, collided with the Philadelphia schooner, Isaac H. Fillyer, off Cross Rip lightship. Both vessels were considerably damaged.

Called to Lowell.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 21. — The Kirk-street Congregational church has extended a call to Rev. David O. Mears, D. D., pastor of the Euclid Avenue Presbyterian church, Cleveland, to accept a charge here.

AN OLD-TIME CROOK.

Andrew Freeman Has an Unsavory Record in Police Circles.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Two Boston inspectors arrested one of the oldest and boldest criminals in the New England states yesterday afternoon. He gave his name as James Freeman, but he was recognized by Chief Inspector Watts as Andrew Freeman, an ex-convict and burglar, who was convicted at Lowell, Lawrence and other places several years ago. The police believe he is the man who has been blowing open safes in Maine towns during the past few months.

Inspectors Wise and Robinson noticed a man and woman on Tremont street yesterday afternoon attempting to sell postage stamps. The inspectors suspected that the stamps were stolen, and followed the couple. They went to the Union station, and just as they were about to board a train the inspectors arrested them. At police headquarters they were searched, and over 1000 postage stamps, a silk dress, three gold watches, a large quantity of broken-up watch cases, chains and an immense quantity of jewelry were found upon them. The woman gave her name as Mary Williams.

Chief Inspector Watts had little difficulty in recognizing the man as Freeman, who has spent nearly half of his life behind prison bars. He was convicted in Lawrence of breaking and entering the depot Oct. 30, 1865, and sentenced to three years in the state prison. He attempted to aid a state prisoner to escape after his release in 1868, and was sentenced for five years. He was convicted of breaking and entering dwelling houses in Lowell in 1874 and sentenced to 10 years at Charlestown. Since his release he is believed to have been operating in New England towns.

Time Worked Changes.

Freeman is about 45 years of age, and has changed considerably since he was last seen in Boston. He at first denied his identity, but telltale marks on his arms and his picture in bracket No. 523 of the rogues' gallery settled him, and he admitted that the officers had correctly placed him.

The prisoners were booked as James Williams, 49 years old, and Mary Williams, 27 years of age. Freeman claimed he belonged in Lewiston, Me., but the woman told a different story, and said that they hailed from New York.

While the conversation had been going on Chief Inspector Watts had been eyeing Freeman pretty hard, trying to place him, and it was just then that Inspector Howard saw him. Almost instantly the chief and the inspector identified the man, and it was then that the rogues' gallery and the record books were referred to.

The telltale marks in India ink were found upon his arms, and made identification positive, and it was then that he admitted that he was an ex-convict. It was then that he stated that he knew if he did wrong in this state he would be liable to a 25-year sentence, and he swore that anything that was found in his possession had been stolen elsewhere.

The woman told the police that she had always believed that her husband was in the tea and coffee business, but the police discredit this statement, and say that, in their opinion, the woman is also a clever "crook" who has been working in connection with Freeman.

Freeman is well known by Deputy Superintendent (formerly chief inspector), Hanscom, and the latter called on him last evening. Deputy Hanscom says that Freeman remembered him, but that the ex-convict has changed so much himself that he did not recognize him at first.

The Difference

"I see no difference between H-O and any other oatmeal!" We know it. The difference is not to be seen. You taste, and smell, and feel the difference, though!

H-O

is different from all others, in that it is more sweet, smooth, delicate, digestible. Its preparation begins where the others leave off. It is twice cooked, once by steam, once by super-heated air. Thus half the work of digestion is done, and the system is never over-taxed or over-heated.

Be sure to get the package with the big H-O on the end.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

The ordinances in regard to littering the streets have been published in the papers recently, and what is called for next is to have Chicago's example followed, and the two ordinances openly displayed on every lamp post in the city. Framed and hung on the walls of each schoolhouse they would work for good, but the most effective deed would be the arrest and fining of some culprit who throws down a bit of waste paper, or scatters many-hued circulars about. An object lesson is needed.

There is some complaint from those living in the neighborhood of schools of the carelessness of children who leave a daily trail of litter behind them. A certain school makes itself particularly unpleasant in this way. The children have a custom of visiting the bakeries at recess, and lunching from paper bags on their way back, dropping the bags in the street when emptied, or throwing them into yards. For this last offence there may be no remedy, but one arrest and fine "of not less than two or more than twenty dollars" for a bag thrown down on the public highway would go a long way toward teaching the youth of Newport a respect for the rights of others.

A lady saw two lads crumpling up the bags they had been eating from, and starting to toss them into the street. With a thought of her own sons and the annoyance it would cause her if they should be guilty of such tricks, she dared to remonstrate with these boys. The young lads giggled at her pleasant words, threw down the papers with an extra air of bravado, and ran off, leaving a woman who is a much respected mother and grandmother feeling more snubbed than is usual for one of her standing and accomplishments. While these boys are not fair examples, perhaps, of the young men the city is helping to the higher education, the incident shows that there is no school, however advanced the grade, that does not require instruction in the laws, if reverence and politenesses cannot be taught.

These ordinances referring to the cleanliness of the streets are delightful reading at first thought, but there follows closely a recollection of a police report appearing in a Newport paper within a year. A man had been arrested for some offence, but, as the report read, on discovering that he had only violated a city ordinance he was released. The most sanguine nature has moments of utter hopelessness at every fresh discovery of the way the quality of mercy is enthroned in the hearts of those who have in charge the unruly of Newport.

The hospital has been obliged to make another appeal for old linen. One knowing the requirements of hospital work can well understand the quantities that are used. It is a want that can be readily supplied if kept in mind. Linen, cotton and flannel are all needed, in large or small pieces. The small rolls that can be made up in every household are very welcome, and there is no danger of an over-supply. Packages will be received for forwarding at the office of the street railway and at Mr. Powell's drug store, or can be left at the hospital itself.

A friend has found an interesting memorial monument which certainly has the merit of originality. It is a square stone, and on one of the faces, under a relief of two clasped hands, is an inscription after this fashion:

Emily Noble
and
Albert Dickson
Married
Jan. 29, 1870.

Two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one.

On the face to the left there are two interlocked hearts in relief at the top, and below:

In memory of a most devoted wife of angelic disposition, unselfish and charitable.

The opposite face has an anchor above the inscription:

In memory of a husband who adored his angel wife, an upright man with good will toward all and malice toward none.

On the fourth face, opposite that devoted to the wedding, are the dates of the birth and death of Emily Noble, and the date of Albert Dickson's birth, but beside the long mound that ends with a footstone marked "Emily" there is yet a level stretch from the monument to the footstone marked "Albert." The upright man of good will and without malice evidently still lives to enjoy his epitaph.

Neighbor Jamestown is getting quieter these autumn days, but on the ferry boat one does not realize it, so many take the opportunity for a sail across to Conanicut. There are rumors of Newporters who have spent five hours in one day this summer on the boat, passing back and forth through the beautiful harbor, and all this travel for five cents. This is getting the worth of one's money with a vengeance. Crossing on the boat that leaves Newport at twenty minutes past four gives an hour in Jamestown before the return of the six o'clock boat—and this is ample time for a stroll in and about the cottages and hotels, or a walk over to the west ferry, or, best of all, one along the shore south of the dock, and an ascent of some of the knolls that show far reaching views of sea and bay and fair Rhode Island. Jamestown is encompassed with lovely scenes, and if a visitor gets no farther than the piazza of the nearest hotel there is sufficient before him to make an hour pass quickly. It is wise, however, to go up the short street at the left of the Thorndike for the sake of seeing the masses of honeysuckles now in profuse and most fragrant bloom over verandas and fences.

HOW HE MADE BELLS RING.

Recently, at one of our large hotels, while a party was holding an argument on the subject of spiritualism, one young fellow expressed his belief that there was something in it, as he himself was a sort of a "medium."

"How a medium?" inquired one of the speakers.

"Why," replied the wag, "I can do a good many mysterious things; for instance, I can make a bell ring without touching it."

The other offered to wager that he couldn't. The wag persisted, and said that he would lay him five pounds he could make at least a dozen of the bells in the passage ring within two minutes, without leaving his seat.

"Done," exclaimed the skeptic, and the money was staked.

The young fellow turned round on his seat, opened a closet door, and turned off the gas from the upper part of the building. In less than one minute half the bells in the passage began to ring violently, the persons above having lost their lights.

And so, of course, the money was fairly won.—[Tid-Bits.]

THERE WAS NO EIGHTH.

And Newport Won the Last Game of the Season.

The last home game of the Newport base ball team for the season of 1895 was played on Freebody Park yesterday in the presence of about seven hundred spectators. There probably would have been a larger attendance had the people known positively that it was to be the last chance to see the nine play. Fred Doe's New Bedfords were the visiting team, and as each club had won a game there was considerable rivalry for the rubber. The New Bedfords were handicapped at the start, for Doe was in the box and Dowd was twirling against them. They started out, however, just as though they intended to win, and in the first two innings scored four times. It was some little while before the home batters caught on to Doe's straight curves, but they began it in the fourth. In the fifth Doe gave three bases on balls, the last forcing in a run. He then left the box, and Wittrock went in. The batters at once began paying their respects to him, and in the eighth he tried to get out, saying his arm was lame. Sharpe, who was catching, refused to catch Steere, who was going to try to pitch, and so Wittrock pulled through the inning. The Newports scored four runs in their half of this inning, and then the game was called, as the players claimed it was too dark to see. The score went back to the seventh inning, making it look less one-sided. The Newports put up the better game, both in the field and at the bat, and ought to win, as they did. Sexton had but one chance, a very hard one, which he gathered in; Donovan had a couple of pretty catches, and Cotter's one-handed catch of a line hit, on which he ran out Delaney at first, completing a double play and retiring the side, was a beauty. Steere made a pretty looking catch of a liner from Burke's bat in the sixth, and Hannivan a good catch of a foul from Waldron in the seventh. The crowd was good-natured, and guyed the visitors so on their "hard luck" remarks that they were glad to drop the expression. The score is as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Newport	0	1	0	3	1	4	0	—9
New Bedford	2	2	0	0	0	0	1	—5

Earned runs—Newport, 2; New Bedford, 1. Two-base hit—Donovan. Sacrifice hits—Holmes, Walters, Hannivan, Doe. Passed balls—Burke, Sharpe. Wild pitch—Dowd. Bases on balls—By Dowd, 4; by Doe, 5. Hit by pitcher—By Dowd, Steere; by Wittrock, Sexton. Struck out—By Dowd, 4. Left on bases—Newport, 8; New Bedford, 8. Double plays—Cotter; Walters and Birmingham. Time—1 hour and forty-five minutes. Umpire—Connolly.

In the middle of the fifth inning Messrs. John Gilpin and F. M. Wheeler, the committee appointed by Mr. F. A. Abell to award the prize offered by him to the player of the Newport team who stood highest in batting and general conduct, appeared on the field. Umpire Connolly called time and beckoned the Newport team to the plate. Pitcher Sullivan, who was on the coach lines, called the players in, saying that something was about to happen, but the only ones to respond were Cotter, Dowd, Burke and Sullivan. Mr. Gilpin then, in brief and appropriate remarks, congratulated the association for its enterprise in establishing the game on a new footing, and expressing the gratification which he knew many felt at having such a place of entertainment during the summer. He then spoke of Mr. Abell's very generous offer, and stated that Edward Dowd, the big pitcher, had been awarded the watch, which he presented. Mr. Wheeler then handed Captain Cotter a bouquet of American roses, a personal gift from Mr. Gilpin, who, though he has seen very little of the games this year, has a great admiration for the captain, and personally would have liked to see him win the watch. The crowd cheered the players after the presentation, and when they came in from the field at the close of the inning three cheers were given for Dowd, Captain Cotter and Umpire Connolly.

As stated in the News yesterday, the two highest batsmen were Sexton and Dowd. The former led, but as the latter has been doing the better batting in the four-club league, had played twice as many games, and was by far the more popular of the two, the committee decided that under the terms of Mr. Abell's offer he was the one to receive the watch. This is a very handsome time-piece, from the Elgin Company's works, and was furnished by Hermann of this city. It is an open-face gold case with a very heavy gold chain and a seal, the whole being a valuable trophy. The award of the watch to Dowd gives general satisfaction to those who have attended the games regularly. If the award were to be for the best batting alone, Sexton should have had it, as he leads.

The team went to New Bedford this morning, to play its last game. The New Bedfords waited over and accompanied them. There has been some talk of a benefit game to be played next week, but thus far nothing definite has been done. The New Bedfords want the Newports to play them a benefit game next week, and offer to come here to play the home team in return. Some arrangement will probably be made regarding this today.

At Fall River yesterday the Cuban Giants were badly treated by the New England league champions, who pounded Nelson for twenty-four hits, with a total of thirty-seven bases. The Giants were not slow with the bat, making ten singles, but almost perfect fielding kept their score down. The attendance was 600. The score follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Fall River	2	0	2	3	3	1	1	1	7	—20
Cuban Giants	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	—3

Earned runs—Fall River, 9. Home run—Ladd. Three-base hits—Yeager, 2; Stevens, 2. Two-base hits—Rupert, Stevens.

HE SOON MANAGED IT.

A Liverpool merchant recently went to his head clerk and said: "John, I owe about £10,000, and all I possess is £4,000, which is locked up in the safe. I have been thinking that this is the right time to make an assignment, but what plausible pretext I can give my creditors I know not. You have plenty of brains; think the matter over, and let me know your decision in the morning."

The clerk promised to do so.

On entering the office next morning the merchant found the safe open, the money gone, and in its place a letter, which read as follows: "I have taken the £4,000 and have gone to South America. It is the best excuse you can give your creditors."—[Tid-Bits.

LOVERS STILL.

His hair as wintry snow is white;
  Her trembling steps are slow;
His cheeks have lost their merry light,
  Her cheeks their rosy glow;
Her hair has not its tints of gold,
  His voice no joyous thrill;
And yet, though feeble, gray and old,
  They're faithful lovers still.

Since they were wed, on lawn and lea,
  Oft did the daisies blow,
And oft across the trackless sea
  Did swallows come and go.
Oft were the forest branches bare,
  And oft in gold arrayed;
Oft did the lilies scent the air,
  The roses bloom and fade.

They've had their share of hopes and fears,
  Their share of bliss and bale,
Since first he whispered in her ears
  A lover's tender tale.
Full many a thorn amid the flowers
  Has lain upon their way;
They've had their dull November hours
  As well as days of May.

But firm and true through weal and woe,
  Through change of time and scene,
Through winter's gloom, through summer's glow,
  Their faith and love have been.
Together hand in hand they pass
  Serenely down life's hill,
In hope one grave in churchyard grass
  May hold them lovers still.

PERSONALS.

....Bernhardt has presented her two pet gorillas, Paul and Virginia, to the Jardin des Plantes, Paris. They had grown too big to be amusing.

....According to the Lewiston Journal, Annie Louise Cary-Raymond has sung $500 into the treasuries of poor little Maine churches during the past summer.

....Paul Lindau, the well known German writer, is to be the intendant of [the famous Court Theatre of Meiningen after October 1. He has recently finished another novel.

....Mrs. William H. Haile of Springfield, Mass., has given the French-American College $500, to be devoted to the fund now being raised for the erection of a new woman's building on the college grounds. About $16,000 of the $25,000 necessary to complete the structure has been raised.

....Mlle. Julia-Celina Drouard, according to the decision of the Paris city council, is to be the Rose Queen of this year. She is twenty-one years old, earns her living as a washerwoman, and has supported her four brothers and sisters for years. She will now receive $2,400 from the money left for the purpose by M. Batifol.

....Palmer Cox, the author of the famous "Brownies," was tendered an immense reception on the Old Green in the centre of New Haven Thursday afternoon. About twenty thousand children took part in the unique gathering, which was held at the point indicated by express permission of Mayor Hendrick. The mayor and several prominent gentlemen took part in the affair.

....Mrs. Daniel Lamont, wife of the Secretary of War, has added to her accomplishments amateur photography, and with her daughters, the Misses Julia, Bessie and Frances, enjoys this pastime greatly. In the course of the Western tour of the family this summer, Mrs. Lamont and her daughters made a number of photographs of the beautiful and romantic places which they visited.

....The chair of political economy at Wellesley College, left vacant for a year by the absence of Professor Coman, is to be filled by Miss Susan Hardy, a graduate of the University of California. Miss Hardy is a very remarkable young woman. She was graduated from the University of California in the class of 1893, and immediately obtained a two years' fellowship in economics at the University of Chicago. She had, therefore, just completed her M. A. thesis in time to accept the call to Wellesley this fall.

....M. Chassepot, inventor of the famous rifle used by the French in their war with Germany, has recently been discovered at Nice, where he is keeping a hotel. His name was formerly on every tongue, and Napoleon III, who had been warned of the numerical superiority of the German army, relied largely on the advantages of the Chassepot rifle as an element in his favor. The gun was long ago discarded for the Gras, which in turn gave way to the Lebel rifle.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

NEWPORT, SC. CITY OF NEWPORT.

WHEREAS, Chapter 169 of the Public Laws passed by the General Assembly May 29, 1895, declares approved and requires to be submitted to the electors on the 25th day of September 1895, the following proposition of amendment to the Constitution of the State, viz:

"ARTICLE XI.

"SECTION 1. The senate shall consist of one senator from each town or city in the State. The lieutenant-governor shall preside in the senate and in grand committee. The presiding officer of the senate and grand committee shall have a right to vote in case of equal division, but not otherwise.

"SEC. 2. If by reason of death, resignation, absence, or other cause, there be no lieutenant-governor present to preside in the senate, the senate shall elect one of its own members to preside during such absence or vacancy; and until such election is made by the senate the secretary of state shall preside. The senate shall have authority to elect its secretary and such other officers as it may deem necessary.

"SEC. 3. The house of representatives shall never exceed seventy-two members, and shall be constituted on the basis of population, always allowing one representative for a fraction exceeding half the ratio; but each town or city shall always be entitled to at least one member; and no town or city shall have more than one-sixth of the whole number of members to which the house is hereby limited. The present ratio shall be one representative to every four thousand three hundred and twenty-three inhabitants, and the general assembly may, after any new census taken by the authority of the United States or of this State, re-apportion the representation by altering the ratio. The general assembly may by law from time to time in its discretion, when requested so to do by vote of the city council of any city, apportion the representatives to which such city is or may hereafter be entitled, among the several wards in such city, and the representatives so apportioned shall be voted for and elected only by the electors in the ward or wards to which they are apportioned: Provided, however, that each ward in any city so apportioned shall, if the number of representatives to which such city is entitled equals the number of wards, have at least one representative; but no town shall be divided into districts for the choice of representatives.

"SEC. 4. The governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, attorney general, general treasurer, senators and representatives, shall be elected biennially at the town, ward or district meetings to be held on the first Wednesday of April in each alternate year, and shall severally hold their offices for two years from the last Tuesday of May next succeeding said first Wednesday of April, and until others are legally chosen and duly qualified to fill their places. If elected or qualified after the said last Tuesday of May, they shall hold their offices for the remainder of the two years ensuing said last Tuesday of May, and until their successors are qualified to act.

"SEC. 5. Section 9 of Article VII, "Of the Executive Power," Section 3 of Article VIII, "Of Elections," and Article XIII "Of Amendments," are hereby amended by striking out the word "annual" wherever it occurs in all the above named sections and in Article XIII of the Constitution, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "biennial."

"SEC. 6. The general assembly may provide by law for the continuance in office of any officers of election or appointment until other persons are qualified to take their places.

"SEC. 7. The first election under this Article shall be had on the first Wednesday of April next following the adoption thereof, as provided by Article XIII of the Constitution of the State.

"SEC. 8. This amendment shall take in the Constitution of the State, the place of Section 1 of Article V "Of the House of Representatives," which section is hereby annulled; of Article VI "Of the Senate," which article is hereby annulled; of Section 1 of Article VIII "Of Elections," which is hereby annulled; of Section 16 of Article IV, which is hereby annulled; and also of the word "annual" wherever it occurs in the several sections, and in Article XIII, referred to in Section 5 of this Amendment."

WHEREFORE, the qualified electors of this city entitled to vote for General Officers are hereby notified to assemble in Ward Meetings on Wednesday September 25, 1895, at half past six o'clock in the morning at the following named places in their respective wards:

IN THE FIRST WARD, at the Ward Room in No. 2 Fire Station building, Bridge street;

IN THE SECOND WARD, at the Ward Room in No. 4 Fire Station building, Equality Park place;

IN THE THIRD WARD, at the Ward Room in No. 1 Fire Station building, Mill street;

IN THE FOURTH WARD, at the Ward Room in No. 7 Fire Station building, Young street;

IN THE FIFTH WARD, at No. 6 Fire Station Engine Room, Thames street.

AND to give in their ballots, as provided by law, to approve or reject the aforesaid proposition of amendment to the Constitution of the State.

Said Ward Meetings, according to law, will be kept open from half past six o'clock in the morning until half past six o'clock in the evening, and no longer.

WITNESS my hand this Seventeenth day of September A. D. 1895.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1895.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

The Daily News was long since committed to the principle of biennial elections. We believe that Rhode Island has too many elections and too much politics in every-day affairs, as well as too much legislation. But we are not quite sure that the proposition now submitted to the people will be of service at either of these points. If adopted, the constitution will still require two sessions of the legislature each year. This will be giving each General Assembly four sessions instead of two, as at present, a change which is as likely to be for the worse as for the better. There is probably no legislative body in the world more dominated by partisan politics and partisan bosses than that of our own state, no matter which party is in control. And this arrangement would tend to an increase of the difficulty, in that it would for two years make it impossible to call a halt by an appeal to the people if things were going wrong. Biennial elections and biennial sessions of the legislature should go together. The people cannot afford to divest themselves of all power for so long a period while permitting and even requiring their representatives to hold two sessions a year.

A state constitution should lay down and prescribe only the principles of legislation, and those principles when agreed upon should apply in full force to all the people subject to its control. The proposed amendment, in this case, opens the way, for instance, for a different law for Providence from that for Newport, and in both from that of Warwick or Bristol, in the methods of making choice of representatives to the General Assembly, and makes possible changes in the cities from time to time, so that in this respect it settles nothing. The privilege is given to the cities to make choice of representatives by wards or election districts, but prohibits it in the towns. This is as undesirable as it is unjust. Cranston is a town, and under the operations of this amendment must elect all its members on a general ticket, but as soon as it becomes a city, for which it has already sufficient population, it may divide into districts, so that each citizen may vote for but one representative instead of for all to which the municipality is entitled. Just why this difference in methods should be provided for in one case and be prohibited in the other does not appear. But it is easy to see how it can be improved to the disadvantage of the people at large and to the advantage of the professional politicians, of whom Rhode Island has not a few.

We will not object to either method which may be thought proper, provided it applies to the whole state alike, and is mandatory. But the plan suggested opens the way for constant friction and fierce political agitation, and so gives us more politics instead of less. A city may petition for representative districts, and the legislature may grant or refuse its request. And in either case the opportunity is given for another petition the next year and a reversal of that of the preceding year, so that this feature may constitute a perennial issue to the delight of a few but to the annoyance of the many. We doubt if any such provision can be found in any state of the Union or any country in the world, and do not believe it to be in the interest of the people to adopt it here.

Of course Newport loses its old Election day at least every other year. The General Assembly must meet in the state house, but with no votes to count, no officers to elect, no governor to inaugurate, and no proclamation to be made from the old balcony. And the charm of this custom once broken will never return. Sooner or later this sentimental proceeding must be broken up and Newport cease to be a state capital, and we shall not refuse to support the amendment because of its operation in this direction. But it is well to meet the issue boldly and fairly, and allow the people to pass on this question directly rather than to kill it by slower processes. And there are other things to be accomplished by the proposed change which do not appear on the surface.

These are the two principal changes proposed in the amendment before the people, the other features of the proposition to be voted upon being practically as in the present constitution. As a matter of fact, this is not a good time for constitution making or mending in Rhode Island. The men at the head are too partisan in their feelings and aspirations to proceed with sufficient care and consideration for work of this character. We have scarcely seen or heard a suggestion looking in the direction of change that did not hold out the hope of gain for the party organization represented in making it, and until we can proceed on broader principles it is well to leave things as they are. It is true the present constitution may be "old and antiquated," but the state has lived and prospered under its provisions, and can better afford to continue as it is than to do worse, as is altogether likely to be the case under present influences. The day may come when the work of revision can be done in calmness of spirit and free from partisan bias on either side, and when such is the case the time for action will have arrived—and not till then.

CYCLERS IN BLOOMERS.

Mrs. John A. Logan has spoken out in condemnation of bloomers, especially those of the Chicago class, as exhibited on bicycles. She was recently in that city and visited Washington park. While there she was treated to a comprehensive and alarming view of the new feminine freaks who wear nightmares called bloomers and rejoice therein. Mrs. Logan saw, and seeing she thought many things which by the time she reached Cincinnati were to burdensome to keep, and this is what she had to say:

"I passed through a park on the south side of Chicago recently while a bicycle meet was at its height. I had never seen such a sight before in all my life, or had greater occasion to blush for the modesty of American girls. Some appeared in bicycle suits that were simply disgusting on any man or woman."

In calling attention to this testimony, the Chicago News says: "Mrs. Logan cannot be called old-fashioned, for she is in all respects a progressive, cultured woman, so her dislike for bloomers cannot be laid to old-fogyism. On turning the question around the conclusion is reached that the fault must lie in the bloomers themselves—which is precisely what a great many individuals have privately suspected ever since the divided creations made their appearance. It is not that Mrs. Logan saw a few unrefined, gum-chewing and masculine women riding in bloomers and knickerbockers, and rushed to the conviction that all women who wore like suits were immodest—she knows that this just-mentioned brand of feminines would be unladylike in trained skirts; but it is because she saw so many otherwise modest and good-looking girls and women who have been bewitched by the bloomer craze and have made spectacles of themselves."

"President Cleveland pressed the button—the rest was all done in Atlanta, and well done, too," says the Tribune. "Yes, and if President Cleveland presses the third-term button the people will do the rest, and do it well, too," responds the Commercial Advertiser. This is the first confident expression of an opinion which we have seen, that President Cleveland if nominated for a third term could be elected.

Thursday was one of the hottest days of the season in Washington, some thermometers going above the hundred mark, though the general average in the streets is believed to have been 96°, and in the coolest buildings about 89°. This is in decided contrast to Newport weather on that day, but the warm wave appears to have reached us this morning, as one of the latest arrivals of the season.

The clerk of the weather pays about as little attention to E. Stone Wiggins this year as usual. The big storm predicted, by which terrestrial things were to be turned upside down, has not at this time of day put in an appearance. Wiggins told us of the big storm in Michigan after it was past, and should confine himself to such predictions.

The Providence policemen have caught a burglar, and now the question is: What shall be done with him? The last crook thus taken in was set at liberty on light bail, and quickly disappeared. That was not their fault, and it is said not the fault of the court, so much as of the statute book.

Up to the present time Congress has appropriated $725,000 for the Chickamauga-Chattanooga battlefield park, while the individual states have nearly expended a like amount. It is to be a big affair.

The Cubans have set out to organize a republican government. When they do so, and send its representative to this country, it will be proper to extend recognition on our part.

More people turned out at the great fair in Providence, this year, on Governor's day, than ever before, a worthy tribute to a worthy governor.

President Cleveland will probably return to Washington next week, unless the present "hot spell" continues.

Lord Dunraven pronounces Newport the Brighton of America. We should prefer to say that Brighton is the Newport of England.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst has come home from Europe, and is as full of fight as ever.

THIS SEASON'S WEDDINGS.

As the bride's mother, in reception dress without hat, is escorted up the aisle, it is known that the hour for the bridal party to arrive has come. There are a few moments' delay after the hour set, but only a few moments are permissible. Then the sexton unfastens the ribbon which is across the aisle, and after a pause the grand opening notes of the wedding march are heard, and every one in the church rises. From a side door in the chancel the minister appears, followed by the groom and best man, dressed like the ushers, with their tall hats in their hands. Taking their places on the minister's left, and standing against the background of palms and tall potted plants with which the chancel is decorated, facing the audience, they await the bridal party.

Entering from the front door, and walking up the middle aisle, the procession comes slowly, very slowly, but all in perfect step—first the ushers, two by two, separating as they reach the chancel, one of each couple walking to the minister's left and one to his right. The bridesmaids follow in the same order, dressed in light dresses which are made alike, each couple—generally all—in the same color, with light slippers, long light Suede gloves, and carrying a bouquet. They break rank at the chancel, following the ushers, and taking their places in front of them. The maid of honor comes next, walking alone, dressed in a fashion to correspond with the style of the bridesmaids' dresses, but of a contrasting color. She takes her place at the minister's right, in front of the bridesmaids, and opposite the best man, who meanwhile has taken the groom's hat, and is in readiness to hand him the wedding ring at the right moment.

Behind the maid of honor walks the bride, leaning on her father's arm. She is dressed in a long white satin dress, veil, white satin slippers, white gloves, and carrying a bouquet or white prayer-book. As she reaches the altar the groom meets her, taking her from her father, and conducting her with his left hand to the minister by her right hand. The solemn service begins, the father standing behind his daughter until he has given her away, then stepping back quietly to where his wife is seated. The ring is put on, the bride slipping back the finger of her glove, that has been ripped for that purpose; then, as the service ends with the benediction and the organ breaks into the joyous wedding music, the two who have been made man and wife, followed by the bridal procession in the order they entered, reversed, leave the church.

The best man follows the minister into the vestry, hands him his fee in an envelope, then hurries around outside the church to give the groom his hat as the latter enters the bridal carriage. He then proceeds to the bride's house to assist the ushers in presenting the guests.

At the house, which is gay with flowers and music, the young couple receive under an appropriate floral device, the maid of honor and bridesmaids standing on the bride's left, and her father and mother next. After the guests have presented their congratulations to all, they wander into the supper room, where the refreshments are served, either at small tables, or from one large table which is decorated with floral centre-piece, forms of jellies, ices, bonbons, etc.—[Harper's Bazar.

THE INVENTOR OF THE TELEPHONE.

Alexander Graham Bell was born at Edinburgh, Scotland, March 3, 1847. His father and grandfather were both teachers of languages, and his father, Alexander Melville Bell, long enjoyed a reputation in the field of philology and linguistics, being the deviser of an ingenious system of "visible speech." He intended that his son should follow his profession, and therefore early gave him instruction in the anatomy of the vocal organs, their various functions, and the different subjects belonging generally to the science of vocal physiology.

When quite a child, Bell was told by his father of an automaton speaking machine which he had seen. The boy was so interested that he determined to attempt the construction of such an apparatus himself, and he then and there invented a speaking machine, built it, and made it articulate one or two simple words. In 1865 the family removed from Scotland to London, and about 1866, at Bath, in England, Bell conceived the idea of following up Helmholtz's synthetical experiments in the reproduction of sound, by attempting to transmit speech electrically. Between the years of 1867 and 1870 he made numerous electrical inventions based on the Helmholtz vowel apparatus, and before he left England had resolved to pursue one of these inventions, that of harmonic or multiple telegraphy, to a practical outcome.

The idea of actual speech transmission was running in his mind all this time, like an undercurrent of thought that he could hardly formulate in definite expression, but it gradually took clearer shape, and Professor Bell has stated on the witness stand that to friends in England before 1870 he avowed his belief that we should "one day speak by telegraph." In August, 1870, the Bell family emigrated from England to Brantford, Canada, and in April, 1871, Bell went from there to Boston, on the invitation of the Boston school board, to carry on a series of experiments with his father's system of "visible speech," or physiological symbols for the deaf. He remained permanently in the neighborhood of Boston from October 1, 1872, until he removed to Washington in 1881. From the very moment of his arrival in Canada, in 1870, up to the beginning of 1874, his mind was full of the scheme for the multiple transmission of telegraphic messages by means of musical tones, and he had other telegraphic inventions also in hand; but the old idea of speech transmission was persistent in claiming his attention, and gradually his thoughts and energies were narrowed down to this one field of investigation. He has himself narrated more than once the manner in which he proceeded, stage by stage, from his experiments with phonautographic apparatus, human ear drums and apparatus for obtaining undulatory currents, up to the period when he and his assistant, Mr. T. A. Watson, were able to talk to each other telephonically over a short line in the Boston University, and when, by rapid strides, the apparatus was brought to a fair degree of efficiency.—[Electrician (U. S.)

THE FIRST NUMBER OF THE ATLANTIC.

In the sanctum of the Atlantic I met the editor, genial and scholarly Horace E. Scudder, and his new co adjutor, Walter H. Page, late editor of the Forum. I called to see the first volume of the magazine, and opened it at No. 1—date November, 1857. None of the articles were signed, but some one had penciled in the names of the writers. The first paper was by Motley; then followed a poem by Longfellow, his "Santa Filomena," and afterward a story by Rose Terry, and five poems by Emerson, including the famous "Brahma." Oliver Wendell Holmes was represented by the first chapters of his "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," and Emerson again by his essay on "Illusions." Harriet Beecher Stowe had a short story, J. T. Trowbridge a story, Lowell a poem, and Park Godwin a solid article on the panic of 1857. What a literary feast that was to be spread out in a single number of a magazine. No magazine could equal it now if the whole English-writing world were drawn upon for contributions. Yet, with the exception of the paper by Godwin, everything was written by persons living in or around Boston.—[Letter to Chicago Times-Herald.

Chinese vinaigrettes or smelling bottles are a late craze. The war has brought them into use, and intrinsically they are attractive, having, in addition, the excellent quality of being cool to the hand. Chinese workmen, with a patience possible only to that people, hollow them out from stones, and among a great variety may be mentioned rock crystal, jade jadeite, smoky topaz, sard, cornelian, agate, chalcedony, fluor spar, bloodstone, corner, glass, etc, while amber affords yet additional room for selection.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21, 8 A. M.—For Massachusetts and Rhode Island—Fair; westerly winds; cooler in western portions Sunday evening.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, Sept. 21, 8 A. M.—Local forecast for Boston and vicinity until Sunday night—Fair; slightly warmer; southwest winds.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

At the morning observation hour the skies were mostly clear over the eastern half of the country. A large rain area has covered the Northwest since yesterday, and rain continues today in the Dakotas, while a brisk snowstorm is in progress in northern Utah. The disturbance spoken of previously as coming this way from the upper valleys has disappeared to the far north, but another depression of moderate energy has developed in the Southwest, with lowest barometer about 29.70 inches, in southern Kansas. It is not evident at this time that it will reach northeastern sections. The temperature is unusually high for the season throughout the lake region, the Middle states and New England. The readings are in nearly all cases above 75 degrees, the highest on record being 82 degrees, at Philadelphia. In the extreme Northwest the temperature is in marked contrast. There thermometers in some localities register below the freezing point, with the lowest 26 degrees, at Helena, Mont. A relief from the present heat cannot be expected in our own district for another day yet.

The weakness in sterling exchange by rea free offerings of commercial bills, the stronger in wheat and cotton and the increased rail earnings are factors making for a renewed c dence in financial circles. It begins to appear the recent shipment of $2,550,000 gold by La Freres was used by large interests to shake out w speculative accounts in the security market. buying at the moment is of the kind that mean greater degree of stability. The se ment of the country is bullish, whether based upon the grain fields of the West or the ma ufacturing centres of the East. Activity has ta the place of depression, and every one from largest capitalist to the day laborer is feeling t fluence of the change. There is also a feeling d nating the minds of all unbiased students of situation that the difficulties surrounding the c rency question will be adjusted by natural conditions, or else that they will receive satisfac legislative consideration.—[Boston News Bureau.

The really disconcerting fact is that there is an absence of any sort of intimation as to what s are likely to be taken for staying new current shipments of specie and to provide the outflow that usually sets in early in the year. Under such circumstances, opinion has clined to the conclusion, that the governm is likely to issue, sooner or later, a new lo and the more so because the President known to be resolved to take that course should reserve fall to seventy five millions. Such a cours no matter how necessary, would be regarded as a tious misfortune, and could not fail to have a ing effect in every department of business. T possibility has already had its effect; and yet couragement is tempered with the hope that, at eleventh hour, some means may be found for plying a real and permanent remedy.—Hen Clews.

Warmest Day of the Year in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—This was the warmest day of the present year. The yearly record was broken at 12:30 o'clock, when the temperature reached 90 degrees, one degree highter than the heretofore warmest day of 1895, May 31.

Hingham's New Industry.

HINGHAM, Mass., Sept. 21.—A new industry, which will give employment to a large number of hands, is to locate in this town, that of manufacturing matches. The new concern has the refusal of the foundry building owned by the Hingham Business Men's Club.

THE CALEDONIAN SOCIETY'S BALL.

The Newport Caledonian Society gave its second grand ball at Odd Fellows' hall last evening. There was a very large attendance of dancers, for all Scotch people seem able to dance, and everybody was apparently having a jolly time. The new piper, Andrew McRae, played a number of genuine Scotch selections, and pleased the hearts of the old folks especially. The society furnished ice cream and light refreshments. The officers of the evening were: Floor director, James G. Kyle; assistant, James Gerry; aids, James Newlands, William Downie and J. Nichol. The Naval Station orchestra played and P. J. Sullivan prompted.

A NEW CHALLENGE FOR THE CUP.

A challenge to sail a series of races in 1896 for the America's cup was received yesterday by Commodore James D. Smith, chairman of the cup committee of the New York Yacht Club. It was sent by Charles D. Rose of London, and was, to quote the words of the challenger, "for a match to be sailed next year on conditions satisfactory to the cup committee."

The man who has thrown down the last gage of battle is better known as a patron of the turf than a yachtsman. He is the owner of a large string of race-horses, and until last year took a deep interest in horse racing. He has virtually abandoned the turf this year, and has taken to yachting, having recently purchased the Satanita, a yacht which has occasionally defeated the Britannia when she had all the wind she wanted. He is the son of Sir John Rose.

The formal challenge will be forwarded by Mr. Smith to the secretary of the New York Yacht Club. It cannot be acted upon in its present form, as it is from Mr. Rose as an individual, and not in the name of a club, as is required by the deed of gift. The challenger must be enrolled as a member of some foreign yacht club, and send his challenge through his club to the secretary of the New York Yacht Club.

The challenge is not yet in definite enough form for American yachtsmen to form any clear idea as to the prospect of a race next season. Mr. Smith said that he was glad to know that there were yachtsmen in England who were willing to compete for the cup despite the unpleasant termination of the Defender-Valkyrie races, and the prediction of the British papers that there would be no more cup races.

There is as yet no way of knowing what craft Mr. Rose will name. He certainly cannot enter the Satanita, for she is 97 feet long on the water line, and the deed of gift limits the length of the competing vessels, when single-stickers, to 90 feet. It is believed that Mr. Rose has purchased the Satanita to sail as a practice boat in which to train his crew, and to use as a pace-maker for the vessel which he will build to meet the American yacht. The Satanita will probably be used as the Vigilant was in the trial races to test the speed of the Defender.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

It was reported in New York yesterday that the oft-repeated and denied engagement of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, to the Duke of Marlborough, was an assured fact, and that the wedding will take place in New York before the end of the year. The New York Herald says: "The engagement was quietly announced to the families and intimate friends of the contracting parties yesterday. It was confirmed beyond any question last evening. As the engagement is of such recent date, only few details of the approaching marriage have yet been arranged. The ceremony, however, will be held in this city within the next few months. It will be performed in accordance with the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church, conforming with that of the Church of England. Bishop Potter will probably officiate, and the services, it is thought, will be in open church. The Duke of Marlborough cabled the news yesterday morning to the members of his family and intimate friends in England and on the Continent. Included among those to whom the information was conveyed was the Prince of Wales, who is godfather to the duke. It is expected that several of the intimate friends of the duke will cross the Atlantic to be present at the wedding. Intimate friends of the duke last evening, in speaking of the engagement, of which they had full cognizance, said that the duke regarded the approaching marriage as a private affair, and one of which he was loath to speak publicly. The duke has said that under any circumstances his best man and several of his ushers would be his own countrymen, but that as yet he had been unable to announce their names. The persons who will form the bridal party will be of the first prominence in title, wealth and beauty in England and this country. Under these circumstances the wedding will be a most imposing spectacle. The plans of the Duke of Marlborough have naturally been changed by the engagement and approaching wedding. The tour of the world will be abandoned, but he will devote some time in seeing America."

The duke is a representative of one of the most distinguished families of Europe. His full name is Charles Richard John Spencer Churchill, the ninth Duke of Marlborough. In addition to being Duke of Marlborough, he is Marquis of Blandford, and will be until he is the father of a son, who will assume that title by courtesy. He is also Earl of Marlborough, Earl of Sunderland, Baron Spencer, of Wormleighton; Baron Churchill, of Sandridge, Prince of the Holy Roman Empire and Prince of Mindelheim, in Suapia.

He went to Cambridge, where he soon showed that he had reached his proper sphere by flooring the boldest examiners of whom Trinity College could boast. He speedily became a member of the Pitt, the Athenaeum, the True Blue, the Carlton and other organizations of the students. He played polo and cricket, the latter with great precision and accuracy of style. His rooms became noted as showing his excellent taste, and he was well known to the Bond street dealers in antiques. He is a bold horseman as well, and with all these he was an excellent student, history being his favorite study, while for mathematics he entertained a strong dislike.

After the year of mourning consequent on his father's death, the young duke's coming of age was commemorated by a grand fête in historical Blenheim Palace, in which he had passed almost all of his life. Then he took his seat in the House of Lords and began to take an active seat in politics. But he found some time to devote to literature, and in January of last year made his debut as a writer with an article on "Blenheim and its Memories," which was published in the Pall Mall Magazine.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Oliver H. P. Belmont has contributed $15 to the police relief association fund, making a total for this season of $900.

—Edward O. Riggs has filed an intention to build a two-story frame building, 31 by 40 feet, for John Caswell, on his lot on Vernon avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., are at their country place, Brook Meadow Farm, at Westbury, Long Island, but will go to their place at Aiken, S. C., in November.

—Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien will remain at Inchiquin until late in the fall, on account of the illness of Mr. O'Brien. Mrs. O'Brien's daughter, the Baroness Selliere, will soon return from abroad with her husband.

—Rev. F. D. Blakeslee, D. D., and a large number of the teachers and pupils of East Greenwich Academy came to Newport today on an excursion. They took drags and visited various points of interest about the city.

—Rev. Henry Van Dyke, D. D., has a story, "At the Sign of the Balsam Bough," and Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., an article on "The Future in Relation to American Naval Power," in the October number of Harper's Magazine.

—Department Commander Daniel R. Ballou, accompanied by other department officers and members of his staff, will make an official visit to Charles E. Lawton Post, No. 5, Grand Army of the Republic, next Wednesday evening.

—A number of model yachts will be sailed tomorrow on Lily pond, for a silver cup. The entries are the Witch, Bannister; White Wings, Dunning; Mischief, DeBlois; Thistle, Stiles; Englehurst, Hayes; Bonnie Doon, Pitman, and Madge, Douglass.

"CARROLL'S FOLLY."

"Folly Quarter" is the derisive name that has been bestowed upon one of the most magnificent estates in Howard county, Maryland. It is a monument to the folly of a woman who lived in the first half of this century. She was a member of the old Carroll family, and this is her story in connection with "Folly Quarter": She fell heir to a thousand acres and "enough money to build a house, stables, etc." She took advantage of the reading of the will, and partly, it would seem, to lessen the inheritance of the other heir, she squandered on the house alone the sum of $80,000. She lived in it six months. She had no income save what the farm brought in, and the amount of that was entirely inadequate to the maintenance of an establishment such as she had planned. The place was sold, and the second owner was hardly more fortunate. At the end of two years "Folly Quarter" again changed hands, and again came into the possession of the Carroll family. Since then the house has been deserted. The farm is cultivated by a hired farmer, and the only occupants the beautiful mansion has had since about 1840 have been members of picnic and camping parties from neighboring counties, which infest the place during the summer months and occupy the house for weeks at a time.

The house is in good condition. It is built of cut granite and is of enormous dimensions, with imposing entrances front and back. The huge pillars at the entrances are of solid stone, and one is afraid to say how many horses were employed in hauling them from Baltimore. The hall is gloriously planned, but when one looks into it for the first time and sees the work of the people who have made a picnic ground of the place, for one instant one is ashamed to be the fellow-countryman of creatures who were capable of so marring the beauty and dignity of the house. The walls are twenty feet high and have never been painted or papered, and their bare whiteness offered too great a temptation to the invaders and their pencils. The barbarians have even stood on the mantels in order to place their names high on the walls. The beautiful marble of the mantels themselves is disfigured in the same way, and from the cupola to the wine vaults in the cellar the walls are blackened with inscriptions.

In other respects the house is in good condition. Even the huge heavy mahogany dining table, which is the only piece of furniture the house contains, is in good repair, and a few odd-looking, well-worn cooking utensils are still hanging in the brick-floored kitchen.

The stables have accommodations for numberless horses and vehicles, and over the stables is a large billiard room, with the old billiard table in a fairly good state of preservation. The greenhouses are in ruins, but one can realize on what a large scale they were planned.

One of the most interesting features of the place is the little Romanist chapel. It is of wood, and is the only building on the place that is not of stone. One fancies that many mock confessions have taken place in the little confessional, and one shudders at the opening in the floor near the altar, the size and shape of a casket, which conducts to a receiving vault underneath the chapel.

The sum of $8,000 was spent upon a stone bridge on the roadway, and a beautiful stone terrace is one of the features of the gardens, which were laid out with great care. It is said that every tree that thrives in this latitude can be found on the place. The old-fashioned flower garden, with its box-bordered walks, and the broken sun dial with the inscription "Nicollet Prosnit" and the date 1835 in Roman characters, is full of romantic interest.

Some of the country people have laid off a tournament ground within a short distance of the house, and this cheerful farce, with the young men in fantastic costumes, riding with lances at rings hung at certain distances from each other; the voices of the pseudo heralds, with their "Knight of Maryland, prepare to charge!" "Charge, Sir Knight!" the crowning of the blushing "Queens of Love and Beauty," the final dance in the drawing room, of the mansion, seems a fitting ending to the farce that began when "Carroll's Folly" was built.

Take the Wickford Line for New York and avoid the rush on the sound steamers. Leave Commercial wharf, opposite Postoffice, 7:10, 10 A. M.; 1:25, 4:20, 7:40, 11:15 P. M.

ASSAULTED AN OFFICER.

Policeman Watson Cut About the Head Early This Morning.

About 3 o'clock this morning Officer Watson noticed a disturbance near the foot of Mary street, on Thames street. On reaching the spot he found that James M. Sullivan was having an argument with a man named Boyle, who was accompanying Sullivan's sister home against the wishes of the brother. The officer tried to make peace and stop the noise, and the first thing he knew he was thrown by Sullivan, who suddenly became pugnacious. In falling the officer's revolver fell from his pocket. Sullivan saw it, seized it and struck the officer several times with the butt of the weapon, inflicting several scalp wounds. He then ran away, and the officer rose, picked up his pistol, and fired at the fleeing man. The revolver, contrary to the traditions of police pistols, went off all right, but no one was hurt. Officer Watson reported at the Police Station, the reserve force was ordered out, and after considerable chasing around in the dark, for Officer Watson did not know who his assailant was, the others ascertained Sullivan's identity and arrested him. This morning he was arraigned on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, pleaded not guilty, and was bound over for trial Tuesday. He gave bail.

Officer Watson had a number of cuts in the scalp from the sharp butt of the revolver, and these bled considerably until cared for. The man to whom Sullivan objected finally accompanied the latter's sister home, and everybody connected with the affair was worse off after than before the event.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Rev. Richard A. Greene will preach at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. William R. Huntington of Grace Church, New York, will officiate at All Saints Memorial Chapel.

At the Shiloh Baptist Church, the pastor at the morning service will preach a sermon on "A Retrospective View of Past Blessings an Inspiration to Faithfulness." The subject of the illustrated sermon in the evening will be "Vanity Fair," from Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

The last services of the year at the Mt. Zion African Methodist Episcopal mission at Jamestown will be held at 4 and 8 P. M. The mission will be reopened in June, 1896.

At the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. J. H. Watkins, will preach on "I Looked for Him" and "The Great Ship at Sea."

Beginning tomorrow, there will be a preaching service Sunday evenings at the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. S. H. Hilliard, secretary of the New England Department of the Church Temperance Society, will preach at St. Mary's Church, South Portsmouth, in the morning, and at Holy Cross Chapel in the afternoon.

The afternoon service at the Union Congregational Church will be held at 3:30 instead of 4 o'clock, as heretofore.

Chaplain Sherman of training ship Constellation will preach Sunday evening in Emmanuel Church.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

At the Prospect House—Mrs. James Richardson, James Richardson, Jr., St. Louis; James Taussig, Charles Taussig, Mr. Bowditch, Boston; Walter F. Wickes, Baltimore; Ralph Pemberton, Breton Wetherell, Marian Newhall, Philadelphia.

The Bay View will close for the season Tuesday.

It is reported that J. D. Johnston of Newport has the contract to build a summer cottage for Mr. Woodward of Washington upon the land recently purchased by him on the Cottrell farm.

During the early morning today the most dense fog of the season prevailed upon the bay, much to the inconvenience of the captains of the various boats sailing in this neighborhood at the time. Captain Macdonald of steamer Conanicut was unable to discern the landing here on the 6:45 trip from Newport until within a stone's throw of the wharf, and was on that account unavoidably delayed a few minutes in getting the boat into her slip.

Mr. Ephron Catlin and family of St. Louis left last evening for home, and with others who left at the same time were given a good send-off by their friends, who burned fireworks in their honor.

Plans have been drawn for a summer cottage for Mr. Stephen Cahoone of New York, and it is understood that the building will be completed for occupancy next season.

It is reported that Colonel A. Laurence Wetherell will commence soon the erection of a summer cottage upon his lot on the Bryer shore.

Mr. Daniel Watson has sold for Mr. George L. Lloyd his house and lot, containing about 12,000 square feet of land, situated on the North Main road, to Antoine Silvia and Mary Rose Grasie.

THE ILLUSTRATED AMERICAN.

The current number of the Illustrated American has a frontispiece entitled "The Chiefs of Anarchy in America," being a joint picture in ovals of James Gordon Bennett, Joseph Pulitzer and Charles A. Dana. The first article, by Charles Fdc. Nirdlinger, "The Man Who Is Good to His Friends," is a charming essay. A cartoon by Thomas Nast, representing Uncle Sam and Lord Dunraven, is another striking feature; and so is Archie Gunn's page of comic sketches at the yacht race. The editorial department is given up entirely to a trenchant exposition of Matthew Quay, called "The Degradation of Pennsylvania." Another remarkable feature is "The Book of the Hour in Paris," profusely illustrated with pictures of peculiar stage celebrities. This is a review by James Reulf, Jr., of Auguste Germain's recent satire, "Theatreuses." The continuation of "The Broom-Squire" and an article by A. Neuman in regard to "Where the Gold Reserve Goes," and another delightful article on "Plays and Players" by Mr. Nirdlinger, with J. H. S.'s exquisite Woman's Department, make this one of the strongest numbers of this periodical that has ever appeared.

CARRYING A THOUSAND FLAGS.

Long Procession Marching Through the Streets of Rome.

ROME, Sept. 21.—A procession of great length marched last evening to the open space about the Porta Pia. A thousand flags were carried by the paraders. At the head of the procession marched numerous delegates from the provincial communes, next came the pupils of the military schools and delegations from the Italian colonies abroad, and these were followed by various bodies of Free Masons, after which came a long line of military, political and workingmen's societies. A feature of the parade which attracted much attention was a group of American riflemen, who carried Italian and American flags. The whole procession made a magnificent and imposing spectacle. As the paraders passed the Austrian embassy there was some hooting by the men in line, which was caused by the fact that the embassy, like the embassies of France and Russia, displayed no flag in honor of the occasion. King Humbert has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Annunziata upon General Cadorna, who commanded the troops who marched into Rome September 20, 1870. Last evening a gala dinner was given at the Quirinal.

French Ministry Troubled by the Sickness in Madagascar.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—It is learned that the cabinet council which was held at the Palace Elysee Thursday adjourned until Tuesday next, in order to await the submission of the reports of the war office on the enormous sickness and mortality among the French troops in Madagascar. It is alleged that the ministers dread the disclosure of the whole truth.

Rumored Movement of British Warships in China Unconfirmed.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—None of the morning papers confirm the Shanghai despatch printed in yesterday's Globe, announcing that a number of British warships had ascended the Yang Tse Kiang for the protection of foreigners in the interior who had been threatened with violence by the natives. Most of the papers print the despatch that appeared in the Globe.

FORT ADAMS NOTES.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

After a long and severe illness, Mrs. Simpson, wife of Lieutenant William A. Simpson, Second United States artillery, passed quietly away Wednesday afternoon. In life Mrs. Simpson by her cheerful and affable manner endeared herself to numerous friends, and her kind and generous disposition won the respect and esteem of the enlisted men. She was a true friend, loyal wife and devoted mother. Funeral services were held at the residence of Lieutenant Simpson Thursday afternoon, Rev. E. L. Buckey, rector of St. John's Church, officiating. The casket was encompassed by floral offerings, conspicuous among which was one sent by the enlisted men of battery G, and another by the members of the regimental band. The remains were taken to New York on the Fall River boat Thursday evening, the interment being in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Lieutenant Rowan left Wednesday on leave of absence.

Lieutenants Rowan and Mitchell have been transferred from battery M to battery B, Second artillery.

Mr. Harry Mitchell is visiting his brother, Lieutenant W. H. Mitchell.

Lieutenant Aultman visited Lynn this week and discontinued the recruiting station in that city.

Lieutenant Simpson has been granted seven days' leave of absence.

Lieutenant Colonel A. B. Curry, paymaster, has been directed to proceed to Tyringham, Mass., and pay the light battery for the month of August.

A general court-martial, of which Major William Sinclair, Second artillery, is president, and Lieutenant Hamilton Rowan, Second artillery, judge advocate, has been ordered to meet here Monday.

A board of officers has investigated the cause of the recent injury to launch Monroe.

Private Joseph Farrell of battery G has been dishonorably discharged from the service by sentence of general court-martial.

Private Patrick Grace of the light battery, having enlisted under false pretences, has been discharged.

Privates Thomas F. McCalle and John Crimmins of the light battery have been granted furloughs for three months.

Private John Reilly of the regimental band has returned from a furlough.

THE HIGH-BUILDING PROBLEM.

The example of Chicago and Boston in the matter of the high-building problem is to be followed by New York. The question of limiting the height of buildings in that city is to become a prominent subject for discussion at the next meeting of the legislature. If every owner of a lot were to erect a high building, the streets would soon become mere canyons, preventing the circulation of air and the penetration of sunlight, and becoming a menace to the general health. Artificial light, of any kind, is injurious, not only to the eyes, but to other organs of the body. This results partly from the increased heat thrown off by the artificial light, and partly from the absence of sunlight. Bacteriologists find that direct sunlight is the most deadly enemy which germs encounter. Millions of bacteria, which might otherwise reach the human system and set up diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever and other contagious diseases, are killed by a short exposure to the direct rays of the sun.

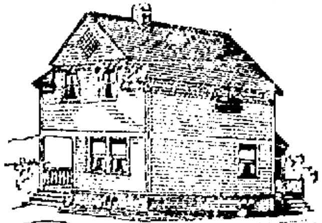
The city of Glasgow, Scotland, has a law prohibiting the erection of any building which is higher than the street on which it abuts. If the building be set back from the street line, the distance it has been set back is added to the width of the street in determining the height of the building. Where the buildings face a public square in which the clear space is above eighty feet, there is no limit to the height imposed. In Marseilles, France, buildings in streets thirty-nine feet or more wide are limited to a height of seventy seven feet; on streets less than twenty-five feet wide the height must not exceed sixty-five feet. In Rouen, France, the limit is sixty five feet on streets thirty-nine feet wide or more. While English cities do not theoretically limit the height of buildings, they do so practically, by prescribing the thickness of walls necessary for each ten feet in height. The greater part of the area of the lower floors of very tall buildings would thus be occupied by walls and piers.

The owners of high buildings in New York are leasing or purchasing adjoining properties in order to preserve for their tall structures the benefits of unimpeded air and light. One big building of twenty stories has secured a license of all the land immediately surrounding it for a term of ninety-nine years.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

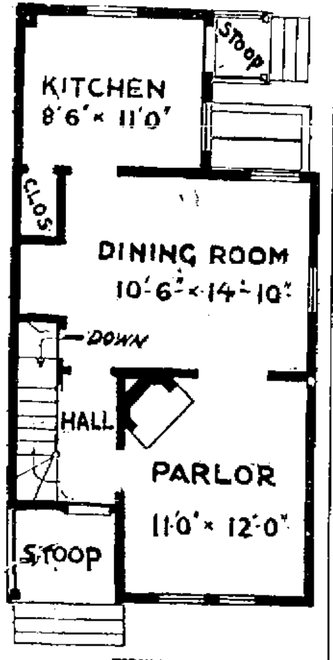
A STORY-AND-A-HALF COTTAGE

Design For a Comfortable Home That Can Be Built For $1,400.

Economy is a watchword that leads people in diverse directions. Utility is another that many minds cannot master, and whose uses in the house-building question are often lost sight of. The fitness of all things pertaining to the erection of buildings is best expressed by the broadest degree of utility, combined with economy, and giving the greatest amount of satisfaction, conveniences and comforts to the inmates consistent with their means and to fill their needs in every way. All of this is possible to be attained in the most simple and economical erections, and no matter what the cost or what the site of the structure this should always be the goal aimed at. With all these points carefully guarded, the reasoning faculties of the designer are alert to the end in view, and less liable to make errors or over-step the mark of prudence, so often resulting in the wrecking of what would be otherwise a voyage of pleasure and a source of happiness. Let every reader think and ponder over the many mistakes in this line he can recall, then go ahead with a determination to steer clear of the rocks and quicksands he has seen, and success will be certain.



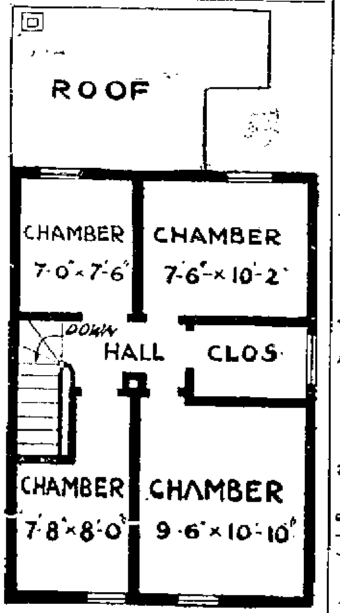
PERSPECTIVE VIEW.



FIRST STORY.

In the erection of a small cottage these faculties are of great value and cannot be exercised too much. The poor man who has little to spend and must get a certain amount with his money has the most need of help. He must accomplish the result sought, and there must be no such word as fail in his case, for if he does not keep within his limits all is lost.

This is a design for a cosy, economical cottage, and is a plan that would fill the needs of hundreds seeking suburban homes, making a comfortable home that has a market value in a good neighborhood, and which will always sell at a fair advance, and may thus be the stepping stone toward the mansion, as it is the owner of the cottage of today who by dint of push, preseverance and well directed energy tomorrow may live in a mansion.



SECOND STORY.

Plan—A story-and-a-half cottage, 18 feet 6 inches front, 35 feet deep. Height of stories: Cellar, 6 feet 8 inches; first story, 8 feet 6 inches; second story, 8 feet. Foundation, brick; building sheathed, papered and clapboarded; roofs and gables shingled; extension roof tinned. Open brick fireplace with mantel in parlor; large closet on second floor, provided to use as bathroom if required. Sink in kitchen; cistern for water supply, with force pump at kitchen sink. Cesspool for drainage; outside blinds. Interior finish, pine for painting; exterior painted two coats.

Cost to build, $1,400, finished as above.

Full working plans and specifications furnished for two per cent. on cost named by applying to George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
PROVIDENCE, September 5, 1895.

BY THE PROVISIONS of Chapter 1439 of the Public Laws, passed May 29, 1895, the following proposition of amendment to the Constitution of this State was declared approved, and ordered to be published and submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection, at meetings of the electors to be held on the twenty fifth day of September A. D. 1895:

ARTICLE XI.

"SECTION 1. The senate shall consist of one senator from each town or city in the state. The lieutenant-governor shall preside in the senate and in grand committee. The presiding officer of the senate and grand committee shall have a right to vote in case of equal division, but not otherwise.

"SEC. 2. If by reason of death, resignation, absence or other cause, there be no lieutenant-governor present to preside in the senate, the senate shall elect one of its own members to preside during such absence or vacancy; and until such election is made by the senate, the secretary of state shall preside. The senate shall have authority to elect its secretary and such other officers as it may deem necessary.

"SEC. 3. The house of representatives shall never exceed seventy two members, and shall be constituted on the basis of population, always allowing one representative for a fraction exceeding half the ratio; but each town or city shall always be entitled to at least one member; and no town or city shall have more than one-sixth of the whole number of members to which the house is hereby limited. The present ratio shall be one representative to every four thousand three hundred and twenty-three inhabitants, and the General Assembly may, after any new census taken by the authority of the United States or of this state, re-apportion the representation by altering the ratio. The general assembly may by law from time to time, in its discretion, when requested so to do by vote of the city council of any city, apportion the representatives to which such city is or may hereafter be entitled, among the several wards in such city, and the representatives so apportioned shall be voted for and elected only by the electors in the ward or wards to which they are apportioned: Provided, however, that each ward in any city so apportioned shall, if the number of representatives to which such city is entitled equals the number of wards, have at least one representative; but no town shall be divided into districts for the choice of representatives.

"SEC. 4. The governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, attorney general, general treasurer, senators and representatives, shall be elected biennially at the town, ward or district meetings to be held on the first Wednesday of April in each alternate year, and shall severally hold their offices for two years from the last Tuesday of May next succeeding said first Wednesday of April, and until others are legally chosen and duly qualified to fill their places. If elected or qualified after the said last Tuesday of May, they shall hold their offices for the remainder of the two years ensuing said last Tuesday of May, and until their successors are qualified to act.

"SEC. 5. Section 0 of Article VII, 'Of the Executive Power,' Section 8 of Article VIII, 'Of Elections,' and Article XIII, 'Of Amendments,' are hereby amended by striking out the word 'annual' wherever it occurs in all of the above named sections and in Article XIII of the Constitution, and inserting in lieu thereof the word 'biennial.'

"SEC. 6. The General Assembly may provide by law for the continuance in office of any officers of election or appointment until other persons are qualified to take their places.

"SEC. 7. The first election under this Article shall be had on the first Wednesday of April next following the adoption thereof, as provided by Article XIII of the Constitution of the State.

"SEC. 8. This amendment shall take in the Constitution of the State, the place of Section 1 of Article V, 'Of the House of Representatives,' which section is hereby annulled; of Article VI, 'Of the Senate,' which article is hereby annulled; of Section 1 of Article VIII, 'Of Elections,' which is hereby annulled, of Section 16 of Article IV, which is hereby annulled; and also of the word 'annual' wherever it occurs in the several sections, and in Article XIII, referred to in section 5 of this Amendment."

ITALY'S GREAT FETES.

End With the Unveiling of the Monument to Garibaldi.

ROME, Sept. 21.—The buildings throughout the city were literally covered with decorations and the streets thronged with people, who came to witness the ceremonies of the principal day of the series of celebrations commemorative of the entry of the Italian troops into Rome.

The fetes which began on the 14th inst. culminated yesterday in the ceremony of the unveiling of the monument to General Garibaldi, in the presence of King Humbert and the royal family, the court, ministers and deputations of veterans who served under Garibaldi.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the mayor of the city unveiled the memorial column at Porta Pia, which is erected on the exact spot at which the Italian troops effected a breach in the city walls when they occupied the city in 1870 and overthrew the temporal power of the pope. The veterans of 1870 moved to the site of the column in a splendid procession. They deposited hundreds of wreaths at its base and sang patriotic songs in grand chorus.

The people who witnessed the ceremony displayed the utmost enthusiasm. The decorations of public and private buildings were of the most imposing and liberal character. Every mention of the names of Garibaldi, Italy and King Humbert was greeted with loud cheers.

Premier Crispi delivered an oration, in which he eulogized Garabaldi without saying a word that might give offense to either France or the Vatican.

Sig. Crispi dilated upon the inherent antagonism of statesmanship and religion, arguing that those claiming the restoration of the temporal power are actuated by far more human motives than that of safeguarding the prestige of the church. The struggles incidental to political government, he said, would stifle all sentiment of veneration for Christ's vicar. Italy has given an example for other countries in renouncing ecclesiastical attributes and according the greatest respect to the liberty of the church.

In the guaranty of spiritual autonomy, the Pope possessed an unassailable fortress which might well be envied by all the powers of the world, and even by Protestants. The pope is now subject only to God. As a temporal prince his authority would be diminished, for he would then only be the equal of other princes, who would league themselves against him. After 1870 Pope Pius IX. could contend with Bismarck. Catholics preaching rebellion should know that they are only assisting anarchists, who deny both God and the king. Sig. Crispi concluded by saying:

"The fetes are not directed against the pope. Do not let us mar the solemnity of this ceremony, in which the whole of Italy is united, but remember that the jubilee reminds us of our duty to defend a patriotic inheritance, won through long years of sacrifice."

A Grand Display.

The procession of Garabaldian veterans to the Villa Corsiny was a striking and impressive spectacle, with its bands of music and its banners. The old soldiers in red shirts were loudly cheered as they marched through the streets. According to some estimates 100,000 people congregated upon the Janiculum hill.

The royal carriage moved through the crowd with the greatest difficulty, the populace pressing about to seize the hands of King Humbert and Queen Marguerite. A tremendous shout went up as the veil was withdrawn from the statue. Garabaldians stormed and climbed the monument to deposit upon it flags and crowns of flowers. The scene was one of indescribable emotion.

King Humbert cordially saluted a nonagenarian Garabaldian, whose breast was covered with medals.

The statue of Garibaldi is by Sculptor Gallori. It is an equestrian bronze, weighing 15 tons. It has been erected in the grounds of the villa Corsini, upon an immense granite base, on the four sides of which are shown four allegorical groups. The side facing Rome represents the defense of Rome against the French in 1848. The opposite side shows the Garabaldians taking Calata Fimi. The third and fourth sides exhibit groups symbolical of America and Europe.

Dispatches from the provinces report that the day had been celebrated everywhere with the greatest enthusiasm.

Last night the city and the British embassy were brilliantly illuminated, and immense crowds paraded the streets. The weather was superb.

A Total Wreck.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—A cablegram from Martinique announces the wreck of the Boston brig Onolaska. The Onolaska was blown ashore and will prove a total loss. The crew were landed in safety.

Blow Proved Fatal.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—John P. Cronan, 31 years of age, unmarried, and living at Malden, is locked up, charged with manslaughter by striking Patrick Gralton a blow on Wednesday night which resulted in his death at the city hospital yesterday afternoon. Patrick Barry, 23 years old, single, is also locked up at the same station as a witness in the case. Patrick Gralton was 32 years of age, and was unmarried.

Police Are Suspicious.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Sept. 21.—T. Forkier and C. Caron, two young Frenchmen, and Mrs. Mary St. Pierre went for a row on the river last night, and Mrs. St. Pierre alleges that when near Andrews wharf the two men threw her overboard. She was rescued by a sailor, who heard her screaming for help. The men claim the boat was capsized, but the police are inclined to look upon their story with suspicion.

Ramsdell a Candidate.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 21.—Hon. George A. Ramsdell of Nashua will be a candidate for the next Republican nomination for governor. His decision to enter the field was not reached until last evening. For some weeks prominent Republicans from all important sections of the state have been urging him to publicy announce his candidacy.

A New Departure.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 21.—An effort is being made to establish a naval engineering school at the navy yard here. The establishment is contemplated for the instruction of officers and constructing and testing machinery. Secretary Herbert will be petitioned to give the matter its proper sanction if the proper effort is made by citizens.

Shamed to Death.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 21. — Mrs. Mary Martin, a widow, 60 years of age, committed suicide by drowning herself in the Connecticut river last evening. The act is thought to have been prompted by shame for the conduct of her two daughters, who have figured in the police court frequently of late.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Tendency Toward Higher Prices In Many Branches of Business.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: In spite of gold exports wheat advanced for some days, in all nearly 2 cents, mainly a single speculator bought, but on Friday fell about 1 cent. Corn rose and fell in sympathy with wheat, with as little reason.

Good reports of foreign crops, weakness of flour in Minnesota and large exports of corn from this country, all work against a rise in wheat, though scarcity of contract grades may help a speculative advance. Pork products have been reasonably yielding, with prospects of a large corn crop, but before the close had a stronger tone. The cotton market, lifting and falling a fraction each day alternately, shows no settled tendency, big stocks balancing an undoubted, but as yet not definite, decrease in yield.

The surprising increase in production and advance in prices of iron seem to be bringing a natural check, as prices have gone so high as to cause some purchases from Europe, both of pig and finished products, and have also caused a distinct shrinkage in home demand.

Leather has further advanced in some qualities, though the rise of 51 per cent for the first half of the year on 16 qualities has been followed by only 2 per cent rise since July 1, and this week a break has occurred of 2 cents in Union crop. Hides are 8 per cent lower than in July, after their advance of 80 per cent in the first half of the year, and the rise in boots and shoes cause some decrease in new orders, so that some shops have stopped work or reduced force. Shipments for Boston for three weeks have been 226,991 cases, against 251,823 last year.

Thousands of Men Idle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Sympathetic strikes to assist the derrick men in their strike for $3 a day were ordered by the council of the stone industry, and more than 4000 men quit work. They were members of the Stonecutters' union, the Machine Stoneworkers and Rubbers and Engineers' unions. Their action completely tied up work on many large buildings and made thousands of other men idle.

THE MERRY-GO-ROUND.

Contrary to everybody's predictions, the merry-go-round on the "basin lands" has had a very prosperous season. In July it came for a few weeks, but business has been so good that Layman & Son, the proprietors, have felt quite disinclined to pull up stakes and go elsewhere. The outfit consists of a tent, the platform and horses, a portable steam engine and boiler, and is operated by five men, yet there has not been a night, regardless of the weather, when expenses have not been made. In fact the enterprise has yielded a fat bank account for its owners, and while the establishment closes tonight it is proposed to return next season. One of the firm intends to take a European trip this winter.

It has been a very interesting thing to witness a night's entertainment there and watch the various people, young and old and of every station in life, who have sought enjoyment from the affair. Several young Indian girls who are employed in the city are said to have spent all their spare cash on the wooden horses.

MISS WHITNEY'S GIFTS.

The gift of the bridegroom is a matter of much speculation. Almeric Hugh Paget is a rich man. He is one of fourteen children of the well known Paget family of England. He came here ten years ago with only a stout heart, willing hands and a few letters of introduction. He wanted to handle real estate for English capitalists, and so well did he do it for a few that many have since employed him. Today he has an agency of millions of dollars, and his income is well toward the $25,000 point a year. His gift to his bride will be no mean one. There are to be family jewels included, and his brother, who will act as best man, who arrived on the steamer that brought the Duke of Marlborough here, was the custodian of a string of pearls and a box of priceless corals, the same that have been worn by the Paget ladies since the days of Queen Elizabeth.

Secretary Whitney has a handsome settlement for his daughter. He gives her nothing outright, but prefers a hereditary right in the big fortune which he has made within a few years. His idea of keeping the fortune large is to keep it intact, never dividing it, and putting it in the hands of the eldest or most capable son for management. Miss Whitney will enjoy the income of one-fourth of the Whitney fortune for life and her heirs after her forever. This is the largest hereditary settlement on record.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. C. S. Brice will give a dinner tonight.

—Mrs. George S. Scott gave an afternoon tea today.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Hone returned to New York yesterday.

—Mr. Theo. A. Havemeyer has returned from New York.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marquand are guests at "Linden Gate."

—Colonel G. E. Waring, Jr., returned from New York last night.

—Mrs. Samuel Powel, Jr., held a reception yesterday afternoon.

—Mr. Sterling Peters of New York is guest of Mr. T. E. Stillman.

—Miss Clapp gave a sailing party yesterday on steam yacht Radha.

—The Newport Clambake Club entertains at Easton's Point today.

—Lord Dunraven is now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson.

—Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Mason have gone to New York for a few days.

—The Pinard cottages will not close until the first week in October.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Rhinelander of New York are visiting Miss Skinner.

—Mr. Thomas F. Cassidy and Mr. M. J. Moran of Brooklyn are visiting here.

—Congressman John Simpkins of Massachusetts is guest of Mr. E. S. Draper.

—Mr. Charles Leland, son of Mr. Warren F. Leland, has re-entered Yale College.

—Major T. K. Gibbs gave a dinner last night in honor of Captain A. T. Mahan, U.S.N.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Forbes Morgan and Miss Morgan will sail for Europe September 28.

—Mrs. W. F. Burden, Mrs. N. D. W. Clapp and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt entertained last night.

—Messrs. Thomas P. Peckham and C. A. Hammett have returned from a visit to the White Mountains.

—United States lighthouse supply steamer Armeria has finished replenishing the lighthouses in this vicinity.

—It is reported that Mr. Leland has taken a lease of the largest hotel in New York city, and will shortly assume charge of it.

—Mr. Perry Belmont will attend the New York Democratic state convention as a delegate from Suffolk county, Long Island.

—Lady Boughey, who has been visiting Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt at "Rough Point," has gone to New York, preparatory to sailing for Europe.

—"Ike" Johnson has taught the daughters of Lord Dunraven to ride bicycles, and when they return to England they will take wheels of American manufacture.

—Broadway residents have been struck with the fad of having asphalt walks laid in front of their residences. Five have already been laid, and no complaints have yet been heard.

—Last evening the sixteenth series of shares in the Newport Co-operative Association was opened. There are three hundred shares in the series, and they must be taken before the meeting in October.

—This noon Mrs. Joseph Bradford's beach wagon, while standing in front of Perry Brothers' office, was struck by a passing wagon and had a front wheel broken. The "breaker" passed along.

—The funeral of the late George Goffe was held yesterday afternoon from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Joseph S. Peckham, on Spring street, and was attended by a large number of former Newport friends.

—The police are meeting with much success in selling tickets for their fourth annual benefit performance at the Opera House, Tuesday, October 1, when the up-to-date comedy, "Girl Wanted," will be presented by Frank Bush's company.

—Thursday Warren Barker, a driver employed by the highway department, was so severely shaken up by a vehicular accident that he is not able to work. He was rolled off the low gear of which he has charge, and narrowly escaped a serious accident.

—In the district court today Richard Sullivan was fined $15 and costs for an assault on Thomas J. Hamilton. George Freeman, who was fined $10 and costs for the larceny of three blankets from the Old Colony boats, was sent up the river in default of payment.

—The laborers at the Torpedo Station had their annual outing today. At noon D. B. Allen served them a clam chowder at his beach cafe, and later they enjoyed a clambake. Tomorrow Allen will serve his last shore dinner, and he will soon close his restaurant at the beach.

—Beginning tomorrow, there will be a few changes in the time table on the Old Colony road. The 6 A. M. train from Newport and the 9:05 P. M. train to Newport, both of which stop at the wharf, will be discontinued. There is a minor change also in the connection with Cottage City and Nantucket, but the other trains are not affected.

—Thomas W. Keene's Richard III, which he will present at the Opera House next Wednesday evening, is one of his greatest impersonations, and will doubtless be witnessed by a large number of Newport theatre-goers, who have heard or know by personal experience the actor's sterling qualities. He will be supported by a strong company and the play will be set with special scenic effects.

—The long-looked-for ball game, the one in which the has-beens of Horned-Toad fame will try to show the summer residents, under the marshalship of "Dick" Peters, how to play the game, has at last been set for Tuesday next; the place will be Freebody Park, and the time from about 3 P. M. until dusk.

—Mr. A. Cass Canfield gave a dinner last night in honor of Lord Dunraven. Among the guests were Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt, Lady Rachel and Lady Eileen Wyndham-Quin, Mrs. Astor, Mrs. J. C. Gray, Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. Slater of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sorchan, Mr. James V. Parker, Mr. O. H. P. Belmont and Mr. W. Cutting, Jr.

—The Hindoo Fakirs will give their last exhibition in this city at the First Presbyterian Church this evening, when they will repeat the marvelous tricks which they gave last evening, and Mr. A. Edwin Rood will precede the entertainment with a brief lecture on the customs and habits of the Hindoos. Mr. Rood will take the Fakirs to New York tomorrow evening, and they will return to India in March.

—One blow on the fire alarm, intended for a "still," called the emergency wagon and company to the dump between Wellington avenue and Connection street at 6:50 o'clock last evening. A large quantity of straw and hay had been placed there, and boys had started a good illumination, which threatened to extend over the dump. Having last Sunday's fatal burning of a child at the Old Colony dump in mind, the police called upon the fire department. The extinguishers on the emergency wagon put out the blaze without the use of hydrant streams.

—Dr. Henri Nachtel, the French scientist who is making a tour of the American cities on a commission from the French government to study health and sanitary methods, is at the Muenchinger-King cottage. He will stay in Newport a few days to study the sewerage system and other sanitary matters, with a view to incorporating in his report the result of his investigations. He has selected Newport as the leading American summer resort. He has letters of introduction to Dr. Rankin and expects to have an interview with the city officials and members of the board of health before leaving for New York.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

Simeon Hazard has sold to Francis S. Barker and Stephen P. Barker, Jr., for Frederick Tompkins, trustee, the lot on Bradford avenue next adjoining the recent purchase of George W. Sherman. The lot measures 41 feet on Bradford avenue, and comprises 9,598 square feet. Mr. Hazard has also sold for Mr. Tompkins, to the Messrs. Barker, four lots of land on the westerly side of Gibbs avenue, the section being bounded easterly, 198 feet, on Gibbs avenue; southerly, 140 feet, on land of the late William A. Freeborne; westerly, 198 feet, partly on land of Richard B. Oakley and partly on land of the grantees, and northerly, 119 feet, by lands of Bradford and White.

"THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP."

The comedy-drama, "The Brooklyn Handicap," will be presented at the Opera House next Tuesday evening by a strong company, including Miss Blanche Seymour, Miss Lulu Hopper, Miss Mary Lavell, Thomas David, C. V. Morton and John J. Coleman. The Boston Transcript, in its issue of August 20, said: "The audience at the Bowdoin Square Theatre evidently went equipped to enjoy a play in which the sporting element abounds. It was prepared to make things lively in the fourth act, wherein occurs the great race, and to give "the great Brooklyn handicap" a good send-off. The piece had its first presentation on a Boston stage last evening, and seems to have made a favorable impression, for it is well written and the incidents are cleverly woven to make an entertaining story. Although the interest centres in the race, yet there is comedy throughout the play that holds close attention. The scenery was especially prepared and is excellent in every detail. The race-track scene, with the grand stand in the distance crowded with spectators, the horses and picturesquely attired jockeys and attendants, are strong features. Considering the space the horses are run in, the animals were skillfully handled. The bright comedienne of the company is Blanche Seymour, who sings well and dances gracefully. Thomas David, C. V. Morton, Miss Lulu Hopper, Miss Lavell and John J. Coleman acquitted themselves in a satisfactory manner."
